

7. Money Messages, part 2

Ask yourself the following questions, and write down your answers.

Did your mother or father overspend... or penny-pinch? Think back about what this taught you about money.

If your parents fought about money, what specifically did they fight about?
If your parents didn't talk about money, how did that impact you?

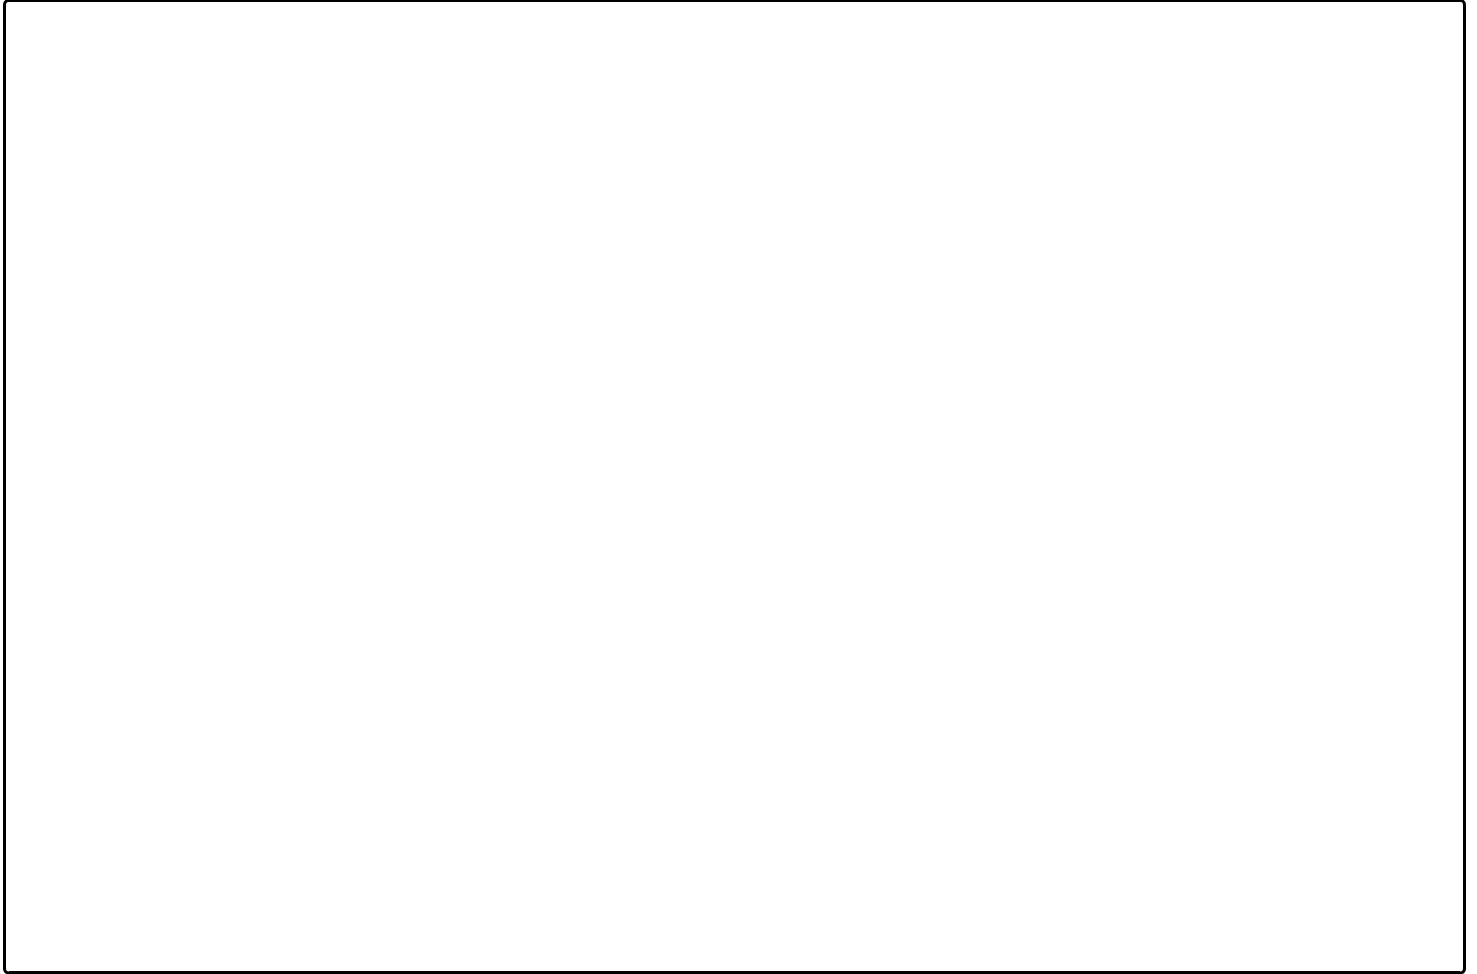

Did your parents complain or worry about money a lot? What kinds of things did they say to express their financial worries?

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for the user to write their response to the question above.

Where did your family shop and go out to eat? What do these places say about your parents' beliefs about money?

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for the user to write their response to the question above.

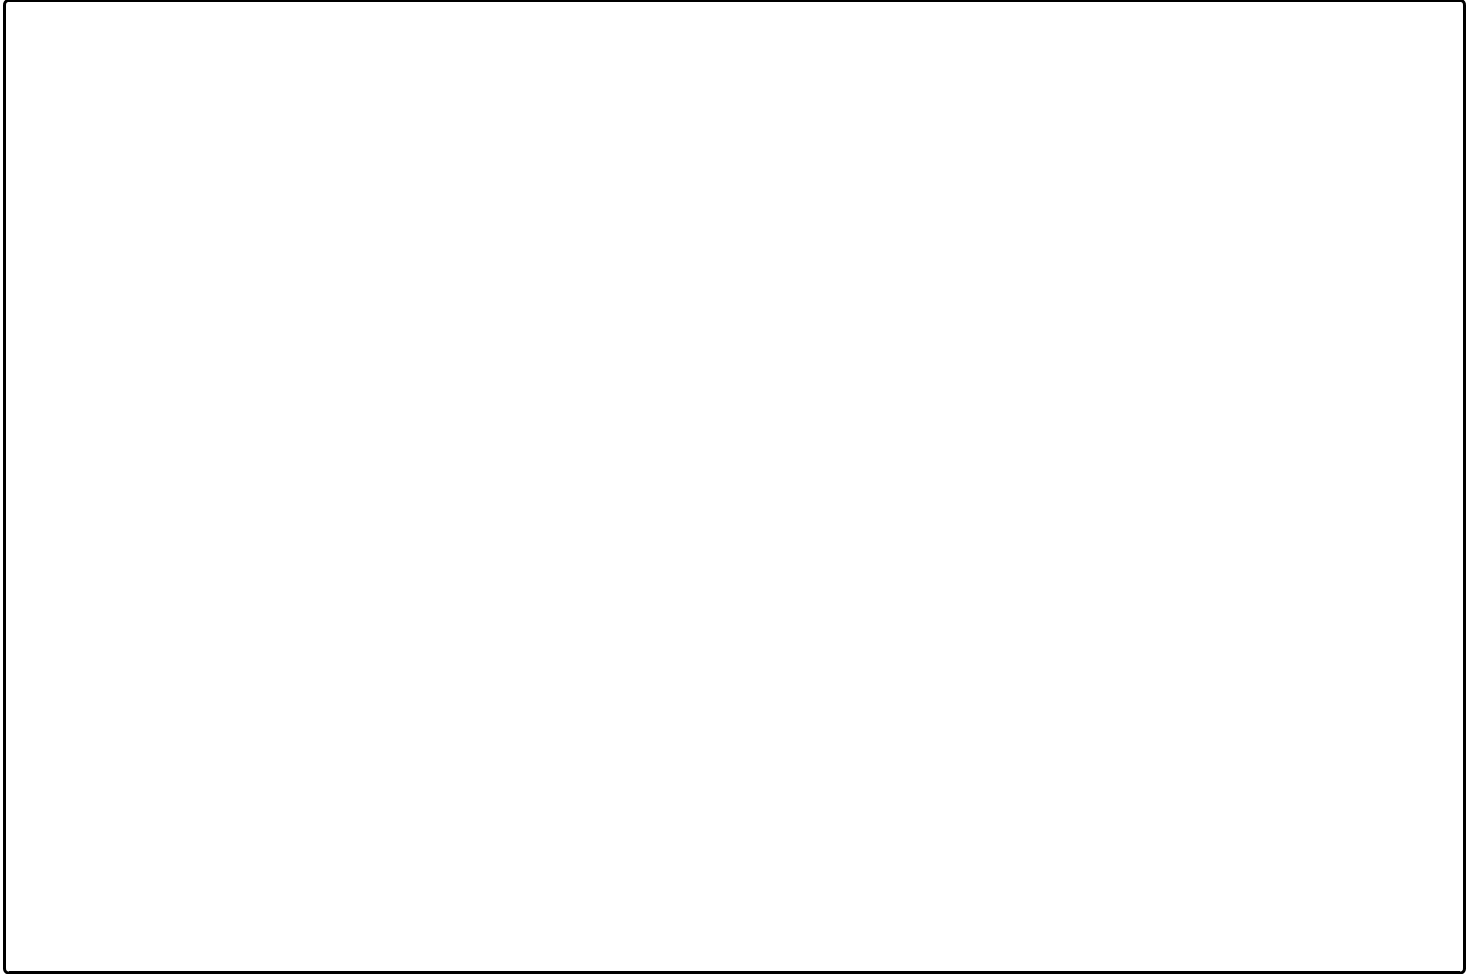

Were you given an allowance? Was anything said about the allowance, how you were supposed to spend it or save, etc.?

Did your parents ever make you feel guilty about the amount of money you cost them?

Did your parents ever complain about school expenses or items you asked them for?

If you planned to go to college, was it a source of stress for you and your parents from a financial perspective? Did your parents have a college fund for you? Were they afraid there wouldn't be enough money to send you to college? Could you not go to college because your family couldn't afford it?

